

SEAWAY SUBMARINE – UNIS

THE latest kiddie ride from Universal Space is Seaway Submarine, an under water-themed motion ride that features an interactive onboard fishing game. When children sit in the submarine, it makes sea-like movements. They can also control the ride and learn to fish using the button panel. If a fish is caught, the name of the fish and a fact about it will appear on the screen to create an educational element within the game.

SINK IT – BAY TEK GAMES

SINK It is based on an American bar and college game where the aim is to throw balls into cups. US-based Bay Tek is taking the game to an international audience with this fun, family-friendly redemption title. Players are challenged to toss or bounce balls into the 10 targets, trying to turn off all the lights that appear. The aim is to sink a ball in each target in as few shots as possible. The fewer shots they take, the more tickets they win. Each Sink It cabinet includes a 22ins flat-screen monitor.

F1 RACING SIMULATOR – TECNOPLAY

ON show at the ENADA Spring show in Rimini, Italy, in March, the F1 Racing Simulator from TecnoPlay proved a major draw throughout the three days of the event. Racers sit in a life-size Formula 1 racing car cockpit featuring realistic controls facing three mounted video screens. They can then emulate their driving heroes by racing around famous grand prix circuits.

6 X 9INS PHOTOGRAPH OPTION – APPLE INDUSTRIES

WHETHER it's a family in a mall or a bunch of friends in a bar, customers in all kinds of locations love taking group photos with Face Place Pix Place, the photo kiosk from Apple Industries. Since

Pix Place is not limited to the space inside of a booth, the camera can easily capture an image of a dozen or more people standing in front of the unit. Until now, these group shots were reproduced in the classic four-photo strips that were vended from Pix Place. Now, Apple Industries has added a new feature that enables customers to opt to blow up the image into a single 6 x 9ins photograph so that every face in the group is larger and may be seen more clearly. Classic wallet-sized photos in the four-photo strip remain available, too.
